ATVBC CODE OF CONDUCT

Upon membership into the Quad Riders ATV Association of BC (ATVBC) and as a member in good standing, member clubs and members of said club will abide by the following code of conduct:

ATVBC Members shall conduct all club business in a professional manner as well as maintain the highest standards of ethical conduct.

ATVBC Members will obey all federal, provincial and municipal laws regulating the operation of ATVs.

ATVBC Members will ensure that all necessary permits are obtained for Club events.

ATVBC Members shall, at all times, refrain from making any statement or conducting themselves in any manner which may bring discredit to the Association or other members of the Association.

ATVBC Members shall hold confidential any privileged information entrusted or made known and shall not disclose this information, without permission, to any third party except as required by law.

ATVBC Members will support responsible, environmentally conscious conduct and will make every effort to influence other ATV owners to do the same.

ATVBC Members will, always, respect the property and rights of anyone they may have contact with while being actively involved in their sport.

ATVBC Members will make every effort to provide support when encountering someone in distress and will provide assistance in emergency situations.

ATVBC Members will respect the rights of other trail users and yield right of way to non-motorized trail activity.

ATVBC Members will respect wildlife as well as protected or sensitive areas that may be encountered.

ATVBC Members will follow land use restrictions and will strive to use areas that are open to ATV use.

ATVBC Members will be environmentally conscious, will not litter and will take out anything that is brought in.

ATVBC Members will obtain the appropriate training, education and information related to the safe operation of their vehicle.

Members of the Quad Riders ATV Association of BC (ATVBC) found to be in violation of the above code of conduct will risk the possibility of having their membership and privileges suspended or revoked at the discretion of the Association Executive.

This Code of Conduct binds not only Club Executive but also binds all club members and staff of an accredited ATVBC Club.
